Famous Pope Mansion 'Completes' Burning

A section of the roof is shown crashing to the ground yesterday afternoon in the spectacular Hillsborough fire which completed the razing of the famous old George A. Pope mansion partially destroyed by fire the night of Nov. 17, 1946. Three Redwood City wreckers had "bought" the mansion for $600 three weeks ago. A trash fire of refuse from the wrecking operation got out of hand and set the one remaining wing of the once $200,000 home afire.

Rites Read

A white wool, tailored suit with brown accessories was the ensemble which Dorothy Skelton chose for her wedding Saturday evening at the Menlo Park Presbyterian Church to Kenneth Pelphrey.

The bride was attended by Mrs. Nellie Lunsford and the best man was Clifton Hanners.

A reception was held following the ceremony at the Redwood City home of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Rich. After their wedding trip, the new Mr. and Mrs. Pelphrey will make their home in this city.

Dorothy is the daughter of the John Skeltons of 3887 El Camino Real and Kenneth is the son of John Pelphrey of this city and the late Mrs. Pelphrey. Both of the justweds are graduates of Sequoia High School and the benedict served three years in the army.

Sally Davies of San Mateo became the bride of Dede Brown of Redwood City Saturday morning in Virginia City Nev.

The young couple has been engaged for over a year. The benedict is the son of Mr. A. C. Brown. He was in the army for three years.

Sally is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. S. Davies. The couple both have children by previous marriages. Sharon Lee is Sally's daughter and James Edward is the son of Dede.

Carol Patricia Power became the bride of Robert LeRoy Thomas Saturday evening in St. Stephen's Episcopal Church in Colusa.

Following the wedding a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Grover Power. Mr. Power has been postmaster of Colusa since 1927 and is presently the junior past grand president of the Native Sons of the Golden West.

Positions Open

Mr. George A. Brook, secretary, Board of U.S. Civil Service Examiners at U.S. Post Office in Redwood City said Wednesday that the United States Civil Service Commission has announced examinations to fill positions of security inspector in the U.S. Atomic Energy Commission. Sufficient applications have not been received and it has been necessary to extend the closing date for receipt of applications from June 23, 1947 to June 30, 1947 to invite more competition. Qualified persons are urged to apply for the examination at once.

Applications, obtainable at first- and second-class post offices, or from any U.S. Civil Service office, must be in the Thirteenth U.S. Civil Service Regional Office, Denver, Colo., not later than the close of business of June 30, 1947.

This examination is open for filling to men only, from 21 to 35 years of age. Most appointments will be made at the entrance salary of $3021 a year, with opportunities for promotion to positions paying $3773 a year.

Heads League

Menlo Park Mayor Charles P. Burgess has been elected president of the Peninsula Division of the League of California Cities. He succeeds San Francisco's Mayor Roger D. Latham.

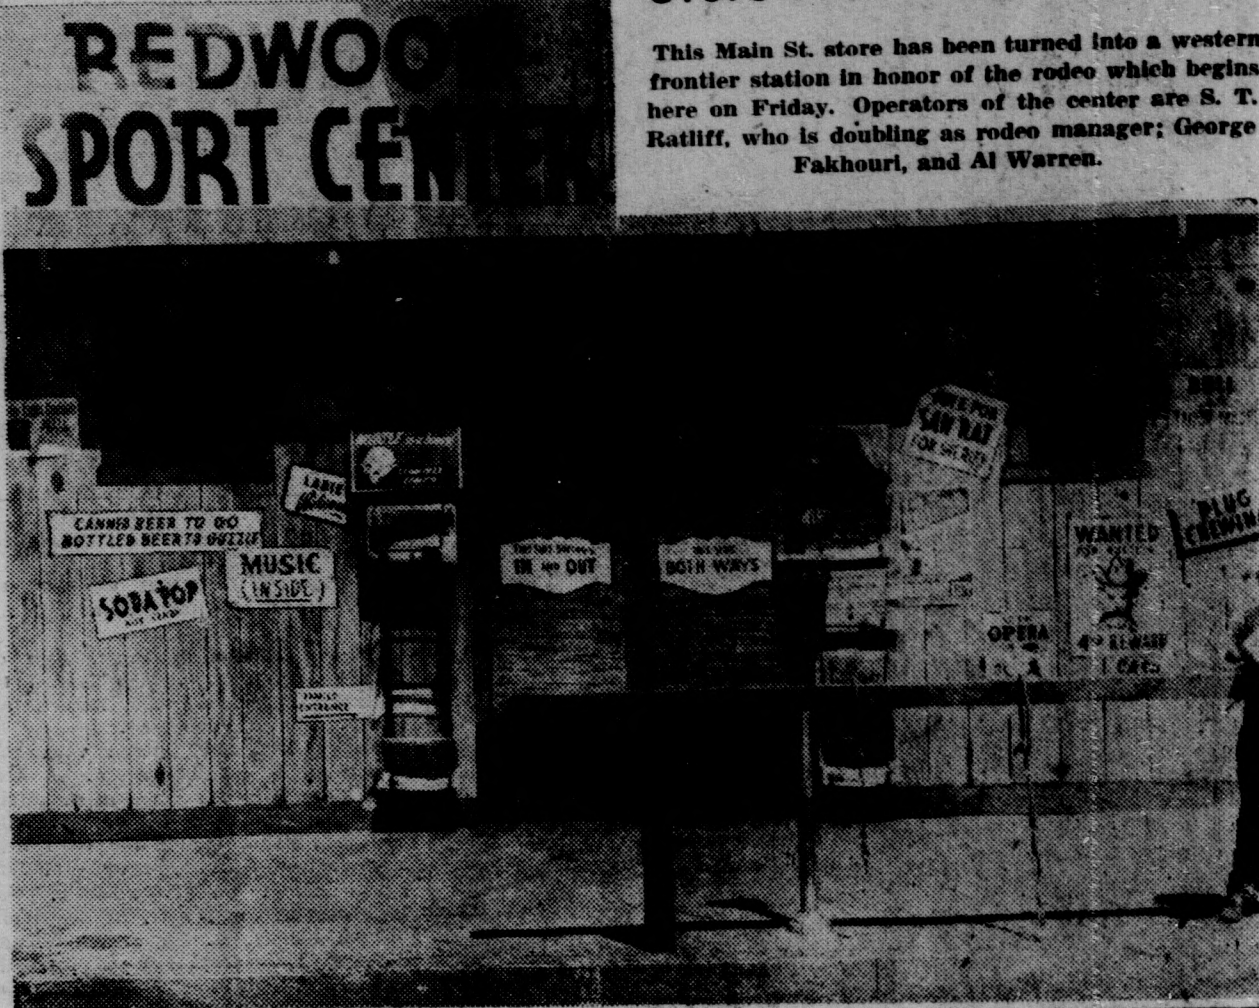

Mrs. Margaret Becker, Menlo Park city clerk, has been named secretary of the organization. O. W. Campbell, city manager of San Jose, is the new vice president.

Mayor J. Byron Blois of Palo Alto remains in his post as a member of the state board of directors representing the Peninsula division.

Elections were held at a dinner meeting of the organization at Villa Charlier in San Mateo Thursday evening. Richard Graves, secretary of the league, gave the address.

Store Front Goes Western

This Main St. store has been turned into a western frontier station in honor of the rodeo which begins here on Friday. Operators of the center are S. T. Ratliff, who is doubling as rodeo manager; George Fakhouri, and Al Warren.

Uses Axe

James F. Keller, 44-year-old San Francisco carpenter, is to appear in justice court here on charges of beating Mrs. Rena Vittici, 69, of 5805 Donohoe St., East Palo Alto. Keller was arrested by deputy sheriffs Saturday and released from county jail on $250 cash bail. He is charged with assault and battery.

Dep. Sheriff Paul Jensen, who made the arrest, said that Keller, who owns the property where Mrs. Vittici lives, is accused of beating the woman with a hatchet handle during an argument about a stove. Keller bought Mrs. Vittici's electric stove for $60, Jensen said, with the understanding that she was to use it until she moved from the property. Saturday Keller started to take two burners of the stove away, and when Mrs. Vittici tried to take them back to the house, Keller attacked her with the hatchet handle, according to Jensen.

Tommy Returns to Job

Defends Lot Holding

Ronald Campbell, vice president of David D. Bohannon Co., Saturday defended the San Mateo firm's policy of selling houses to veterans and retaining title to the lots as "just a technicality devised to save veterans from having to make a down payment."

The system, he said, permits a veteran to buy a house without having to put cash on the line for the lot and also makes his monthly payments smaller.

Campbell's statement came as a result of the announcement Friday by Martin J. Flynn, county assessor, that he would not allow the $1000 veteran's tax exemption on approximately 200 G.I. houses in Belle Haven near Palo Alto because of the Bohannon company's retention of title to the lots.

Campbell also said Saturday that the Bohannon company could go to "bat" for the veterans in the tax exemption dispute. "Exemption should definitely be granted the veterans," he said. "For all practical purposes the veteran is the owner of the house and lot. He has an iron clad option on the lot."

Campbell said it was the same as a buyer's not holding title to a mortgaged piece of property or automobile until the mortgage has been paid off.

In the meantime, Flynn warned the veterans to file their affidavits for exemption before 5 p.m. Monday the deadline, as a matter of protection.

He would not grant the exemptions now, he said, pending a ruling from the district attorney or attorney general, but if the awaited ruling allows the exemptions in the disputed cases, the affidavits will have had to be filed before the deadline or he still would not be able to allow the exemptions.

Dist. Atty. Gilbert D. Ferrell Saturday said he would give an opinion on the question next week, after consulting with the attorney general's office.

Under the Bohannon system of sales, the veterans obtained bank loans for purchase of the houses. Then they were given 65-year leases on the lots upon which the houses were built, with an option to buy the lots after five years.

During the five-year period, the veteran pays from $6.50 to $10 a month as rental on the lots, under the lease. The payments do not apply on the purchase price of the lot.

This system of selling the property, Campbell said, "has eased the situation so that many are now buying their houses who otherwise would be unable to do so."

He pointed out that property has been sold on that basis in Baltimore for 100 years and in Hawaii for nearly half a century.

He said Bohannon intends to sell the houses in his new Hillsdale subdivision on the same basis, including 16 now under construction, and said that the system was being followed in the sale of "every one of 500 G.I. houses in Bohannon East Bay project."

He said that he was not granting the tax exemptions "unless the property was in the name of the person assessed, because otherwise I don't know if it was a bona fide contract of sale."

Ray T. Marsh, another Bohannon official, Friday said the system of sale was followed primarily for income tax purposes.

To Consider Report

A report from the Atherton Planning Commission opposing the purchase of the controversial school site on Selby Ln., Atherton, was taken under consideration Thursday by the Redwood City Elementary School Dist. Board of Trustees.

The report recommended that the board purchase the Shaughnessy-Eichorn property behind the Selby Ln. site because it would be closer to the center of the school-age population.

The commission stated that if the board were to purchase that property, the commission would recommend to the Atherton City Council that the property be annexed into Atherton so as to give police and fire protection to the school.

Concerning the Shaughnessy-Eichorn site, the report stated, "Because of the very large number of small homes which are being and will continue to be constructed northwest of the present Atherton city limits, it is reasonable to assume that the growth of child population will occur in that area rather than within the present Atherton area where homesites of less than one acre are not available."

The board of trustees Thursday decided to call a special meeting sometime in July to consider the report.

The school district is at present involved in a lawsuit filed by Atherton residents claiming that the purchase of the Selby Ln. site was not made in accordance to law.

The board Thursday approved a preliminary $710,405 budget for the 1947-48 fiscal year. The preliminary budget is $309,845 higher than last year's $400,845 budget, but Supt. Andrew Spinas pointed out that in the budget is $117,325 received by the district from the sale of the Central School.

Exclusive of the school sale money, the increase over last year's budget is $192,520. Superintendent Spinas pointed out that the tax rate will not be increased since the $30 tax rate limit was reached last year when the rate was set at $39.48 per thousand.

Spinas said that the additional moneys would be raised from increased state aid funds and increased assessments.

Under the preliminary budget, $473,530 would be set aside for current expenses and the remainder for capital expenditures and the undistributed reserve.

The board set Aug. 1 as the date for a public hearing on the budget. A tentative pension plan for the non-certificated employees of the schools was accepted Thursday by the board. Under the plan, employees with 20 years' service would be eligible for retirement at the age of 60. Retirement would be compulsory at 70.

The amount to be received as a monthly pension would be one sixtieth of the average salary for the five years previous to retirement multiplied by the number of years service.

The board also: Hired three new teachers, Ethel Good, Mrs. Miriam Shostrom and Margaret Goodloe. Granted a year's leave of absence to Lee Alderman of the McKinley School. Accepted the resignations of Virginia Bolstead and Emily McAllister.

SUMMER CAMPS

"I am a little hesitant about sending John off to a summer camp," Mrs. Jones commented at a parent group meeting recently. "He is 12 years old. I know John and his needs so well. I am afraid of sending him to a place where he might be treated impersonally."

"He needs his hot milk each night just before he goes to bed. He needs someone to cover him up after he goes to sleep because he always kicks the covers off. Beside that, he needs me. I hate to give him up, if only for ten days. Do you think I should send him to summer camp?"

The same sort of questions are being asked in many other homes just now. One of the rapid developments in child life since we adults were children has been the summer camp movement. Should our children go to camp?

There are all types of camps, and of course, they range from the very good to the very bad. Some camps are for the entire summer, and are simply parking places at which busy parents can leave their young ones. A few camps are run for profit, and in them youngsters may suffer.

But most of our camps have no such stigma, and most of them offer new and thrilling experiences for our boys and girls. The camps run by character building agencies, like the Y.M.C.A., the Y.W.C.A., the Boy Scouts, the Campfire Girls, the Girl Scouts, the various church groups, are almost always good camps.

The settings are picturesque and very different from home. Our young ones are lulled to sleep by the sound of the wind in the pine trees, and they awake in the morning to the scolding of blue jays and the chattering of squirrels. They breathe deeply of the dry mountain air, and they smell the pungent odors of pine needles and mountain sage.

Their days are filled with wholesome activities: hiking, swimming, riding and work in handicrafts. Individual attention is given, though not to the point of hot milk at night. Selected camp counselors look after the children's welfare, with one counselor to each small group of children.

Probably the best thing of all about summer camps is that in them our young ones learn to submerge their selfish interests to the welfare of others. At camp you are one of the gang. You work with your turn along with the rest. You don't grab the largest piece of cake. You don't elbow your way to the head of the line. You work with others cooperatively, because that's just the way things are done at camp.

Those of us who work with children have often seen remarkable improvement in the personalities and in the habits of children who go to summer camps. Most children do profit from the camp experience. Those who profit most are the ones whose parents have done too much for them. The over-protected ones who are a little selfish and who expect a little too much service from their folks usually snap out of it at camp.

Mrs. Jones' son John is a little over-protected. I do hope he gets to go.

RECREATION AND YOUTH DELINQUENCY

"The lack of sufficient playground and other recreational facilities is the principal cause for the rise in delinquency in our community," the speaker emphasized each word; he meant what he was saying. He concluded by suggesting, "Let's force the recreation committee and the city council to put in a playground and a recreational building out here, so our kids will have a chance."

Of course, if we wanted to be technically correct, we would have to object. It is plain that inadequate recreational facilities are not, by themselves, the principal cause of youth delinquency. Study after study indicates that the principal reason for the recent rise in delinquency is that homes were upset by the war and still haven't got back to normal.

But, still the speaker had something. A complete, well-managed community recreational program can remedy some of the problems created by the upset homes, and so can be a partial remedy to wartime juvenile delinquency.

I have just come from a conference which was attended by school and child welfare workers from quite a large number of cities. I find that the recreational needs are very much alike every place just now. Here are a few suggestions which were made at the conference. They are suggestions which seem to fit city life as well as another.

(1) Most communities need a more extensive after-school recreational program than is now available. The hours from 2:30 or 3 until 6 are hours when the high school youngsters are at loose ends and they tend to drift into unhealthy activities.

Some schools have added club centers which open when school lets out. Others open up the shops for hand work. Still others have an extra-curricular program after school. What seems to be needed is a variety of activities, including both outdoor and indoor recreation adapted to the various age levels of the high school young folk.

(2) A more varied evening program which includes not only outdoor games during the right seasons, but such indoor activities as amateur plays, clubs, musical affairs and dances. Just one kind of evening activity appeals only to a few youngsters. A variety of activities will appeal to many youngsters.

(3) Neighborhood recreational centers maintained either by schools or municipal recreation departments are needed, rather than large central recreational centers. In the large cities it is important that children find their recreation close to home, where they are known, where they are responsible, and where the groups are small.

Yes, more adequate recreation programs of the right type do represent one way for us to get at the increasing problem of juvenile delinquency in the cities of post-war America.

Wins Prize

Redwood City's "happy outdoor living" float, entered by the chamber of commerce and Peninsula Celebration Assn. in the night parade at Salinas Saturday, won another second place.

Sanford T. Ratliff, executive secretary for the PCA, reported last night by telephone from Salinas that the float, which has been advertising the rodeo and celebration here July 4-6, had captured second place among all the community floats. He and E. H. (Tex) Bean were on the way to Los Angeles where they were attempting today to secure a merry-go-round for the local affair. One previously tentatively engaged has become unavailable.

Bean, who has been supervising construction of the arena and other facilities at the rodeo grounds on Broadway near Bayshore Hwy., drove the truck Saturday night that held the float. He reported that the simulated outdoor garden won a "big hand" all along the line of the crowded parade route, and that only the aid of a group of soldiers saved it from being damaged at the end of the route, where traditionally floats become quick casualties of the hilarious celebration. He brought it back to Redwood City, where it will be used in the parade at 11 a.m. July 4.

On the float Saturday night were Le Roy O. Jordan, who acted as master of ceremonies to boost the local rodeo over the public address system; Mrs. Alta Brown Chittenden; Clifford C. Fiegang, who supplied the live trees and shrubs used in the outdoor scene; Mrs. Fiegang; Lee McDonald, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Baston, and the following members of the Harmony Club, who entertained along the route: Betty, Lois and Nancy Bean; Mariel Rae Raean, Gloria Ward, Carmen Ojeda and Lauretta Duncan.

Sunday, several score of carpenters and other rodeo enthusiasts braved the hot sun to get a start on construction concession stands at the rodeo grounds. William R. Laing, representing the Carpenters Union, said the work would be completed next Sunday.

More than 20 concessions will be built, according to L. E. Johnson, chairman of this activity. That is more than have ever been used before at a local celebration.

Further evidence that this year's Independence Day fete would be bigger than ever came Saturday night when nearly 1000 people turned out for the steak barbecue at Flood Park sponsored by the Mounted Patrol as the first of the pre-celebration events. A program of entertainment was presented with Ed Swierleon as announcer. He will also announce the three-day rodeo. Before the barbecue, the queen contest—Betty Taylor, Inez Covell, Sylvia Miramontes and Sugar Steinberg—rode their horses through town and down to the park, accompanied by members of the Mavericks group of young horsemen and horsewomen.

Winner of the queen contest, which closes this coming Friday night, will be crowned at a Queen's Coronation Ball at West Bay Motors Saturday night, which also is expected to be heavily attended, according to Jack Thomas, chairman of this event for the sponsoring 20-30 Service Club. Duke Maier's Roundup Gang will furnish the music.

50th Anniversary

An open house was held Sunday afternoon celebrating the 50th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Edgar Haycock.

The Haycocks are longtime residents of San Carlos who now make their home on Jefferson Ave. in Redwood City.

The sons and daughter of the elder Haycock gave the open house at the home of the Wesley Haycocks at 242 Bradford St., who were celebrating their 12th wedding anniversary.

About 100 friends and relatives greeted the couple during the afternoon. Sunday evening dinner was served to about 30 members of the family.

For the affair the Wesley Haycocks' home was decorated in gold and white. Gold-painted ivy twined around three branch gold candelabra which held white tapers. Gold wedding bells in a bowl of orange blossoms topped the three-tiered wedding cake set on a table covered with a lace cloth.

Children of the Haycocks are Frank Haycock and Gladys Haycock, both of Seattle and Wesley Haycock of Redwood City.

Grandchildren are Kenneth, infant son of the Frank Haycocks; Glenn, 18, and Donna, 14, children of Mr. and Mrs. Marc Mallory; Louise, 10, Irwin, 9, and baby Florence, children of Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Haycock.

Can't Tell

Gieseppe (Joe) Tamperani, who was slugged a week ago Sunday, is recovering at Franklin Hospital, Police Sgt. Sylvester Douglass said Tuesday. He is still, however, in no condition to talk to police, Douglass continued.

Police hope that Tamperani can give them a clue concerning who inflicted three blows on his head, causing an operation to remove a piece of bone from Tamperani's brain.

Douglass said police have not been able to learn the identity of the slugging or slugger.

Start New Survey

The San Mateo County Board of Supervisors Tuesday set in motion the wheels of a new survey aimed at a more efficient traffic system to San Francisco.

The supervisors, meeting with only three members present, referred to the planning commission a request by the Peninsula Citizens Traffic and Transit Committee for complete data on present and future needs of the county in relation to traffic.

The request was made by the chairman of the committee, Frank Bartlett.

Five Injured

Five persons were injured, none seriously, in a head-on collision between two cars on Coast Hwy. Sunday, the California Highway Patrol reported.

Marine Sgt. Alvin Bucher, 26, of San Francisco suffered a broken left arm and was transferred to the veterans hospital in Oakland after his injuries were treated at Community Hospital. None of the others required hospitalization.

The accident occurred on a curve in Coast Hwy. about a mile west of Skyline Blvd. The CHP reported that a car driven by Charles G.

Barton, 40, a radio man who lives at 2647 Garfield St., San Mateo, was eastbound on the wrong side of the road and that Sergeant Bucher swung his car to the wrong side in an effort to pass but that the other car swung back.

EXTINGUISH TREE FIRES

Two small tree fires were extinguished this morning by the Menlo Park Fire Dept. Both fires were caused by the careless burning of rubbish, firemen reported.
